

Chapter Four

Guideline Training and Education, Public Affairs

In fiscal year 2010, the Commission continued to provide guideline application assistance, education, and public information using a variety of different means.

Training

Congress authorized the Sentencing Commission to “devise and conduct periodic training programs of instruction in sentencing techniques for judicial and probation personnel and other persons connected with the sentencing process.” 28 U.S.C. § 995(a)(17), § 995(a)(18). The Commission recognizes that an evolving guideline system, together with the steady influx of new practitioners, creates a continuing need for effective training programs and materials. In fiscal year 2010, the Commission provided training on the guidelines and related sentencing issues to more than 6,000 individuals at 126 different training programs across the United States, including ongoing programs sponsored by the Federal Judicial Center (FJC) and other agencies.

Participants included circuit and district court judges, probation officers, prosecuting and defense attorneys, congressional staff members, law clerks, and other government agency personnel. At the sessions, commissioners and staff provided training on guideline application, developing case law, guideline amendments, statutory changes, and other sentencing issues.

Working with the FJC and the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts (AOUSC), the Commission plays an active role in training newly appointed judges and probation officers. For example, the Commission continued in 2010 to participate in the FJC’s orientation program for newly appointed district and appellate court judges by providing training on guideline application and sentencing-related topics to approximately 20 newly appointed judges at two orientation programs.

In 2010, the Commission continued to present workshops on guideline application training to approximately 240 newly appointed probation officers during ten orientation programs at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC) in Charleston, South Carolina. The workshops concentrated on guideline topics, including introduction to the guidelines, relevant conduct and criminal history.

The Commission also works with the Department of Justice and the federal defenders to provide training to federal prosecutors and defense attorneys.

Annual National Seminar on Federal Sentencing Guidelines

In June 2010, the Commission held its Annual National Seminar on the Federal Sentencing Guidelines in New Orleans, Louisiana. Topics included — basic individual guidelines training, the evolving role and work of the Sentencing Commission, fraud and theft offenses, relevant conduct, drug offenses, sexual offenses, firearms, immigration offenses, criminal history, a view from the bench, departures and variances under section 3553(a), sentencing appeals in the post-Booker era, supervised release: conditions and revocations, advanced guideline issues, and Bureau of Prisons issues. This seminar was attended by approximately 1,200 registrants who consisted of federal judges, probation officers, prosecutors, defense attorneys, and other professionals from across the United States.

Organizational Guidelines Training

Throughout 2010, the commissioners and staff participated in a variety of symposia and programs on compliance and business ethics. In four seminars, with more than 400 participants, the commissioners and staff discussed the operation and amendments to Chapter Eight of the sentencing guidelines and the significance of their application to corporations and other organizations.

High-Tech Approaches to Training

The Commission continues to explore ways in which technologies such as multi-media programs, video teleconferencing, satellite broadcasting, and online conferencing can be utilized to supplement its existing training efforts. In 2010, the Commission worked in collaboration with the FJC to develop and air two broadcasts on the Federal Judicial Television Network (FJTN) — Advanced Guideline Issues: Criminal History, and Sentencing and Guidelines: 2009 Amendments. Such work on the part of the Commission affords the agency the opportunity to expand the reach of its training efforts to the federal judiciary. Approximately 1,100 individuals from more than 110 locations registered to watch the initial airing of these two broadcasts.

HelpLine

The HelpLine — serving judges, probation officers, prosecuting and defense attorneys, and law clerks — assists callers with specific guideline application questions and promotes guideline and sentencing education. USSC HelpLine is open to callers from Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., EST at (202) 502-4545.

Since the HelpLine's inception in 1987, the Commission staff has responded to more than 25,000 questions from probation officers, judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys and law clerks. It is estimated that in 2010, the HelpLine staff responded to approximately 1,200 calls. Frequently asked questions related to application issues concerning relevant conduct, the criminal history guidelines, drug and firearms offenses, theft/fraud, immigration offenses, and the grouping of multiple counts of conviction. In the process of responding to HelpLine questions, the Commission's training and legal staffs regularly consult with each other to ensure that questions are researched fully and answered accurately.

Temporary Assignment Programs

The Commission's temporary assignment program for assistant federal defenders continued through 2010. Two assistant federal defenders worked with the Commission during 2010. The Commission also continued its temporary assignment program for U.S. probation officers. In 2010, three U.S. probation officers participated in the program.

Internet Website

In 2010, the Commission introduced its new, reformatted website (www.ussc.gov). The user-friendly site provides information to the public about the agency, its activities, and developments in federal sentencing practices.

Users can read and download documents on numerous topics, including general information about the Commission and its activities, publications and reports to Congress, Guidelines Manuals and amendments, federal sentencing data, guidelines training materials, organizational guidelines materials, Commission meeting information, hearing transcripts and testimony, and Federal Register notices. The website also provides information on the standing advisory groups to the Commission.

The home page is updated frequently to keep the public abreast of Commission meetings, hearings, news releases, legislative developments, training events, and sentencing guideline issues (e.g., proposed amendments and issues for comment). During fiscal year 2010, the home page was visited approximately 45,000 times per month. Users visiting the Commission's website can browse as well as download many of the documents in either .HTML or .PDF formats. The Commission uses RSS (Really Simple Syndication) feeds and its USSC Listserv e-mail service to alert subscribers to new postings on its website.

Public Information

In fiscal year 2010, Commission staff responded to approximately 6,000 information requests from Congress, attorneys, government agencies, academics, inmates and their families, the media, and the public.

Telephone Inquiries. In 2010, Commission staff responded to approximately 5,200 public information telephone calls.

Written Requests. In 2010, Commission staff responded to approximately 750 written inquiries (i.e., letters, e-mails), the majority of which were from inmates or their families. Other written inquiries came from members of Congress, attorneys, libraries, government agencies, and the research community.

Presentations. During 2010, Commission staff made numerous presentations about the guidelines to university groups, visiting foreign dignitaries, and criminal justice practitioners.

Publications and Training Materials

The Commission issues numerous publications each year in addition to its Annual Report and Sourcebook of Federal Sentencing Statistics. In fiscal year 2010, publications included the following: United States Sentencing Commission Guidelines Manual; Report on the History of the Child Pornography Guidelines; Federal Offenders Sentenced to Supervised Release; Computation of “Recency” Criminal History Points Under §4A1.1(e); Results of Survey of United States District Judges: January 2010 through March 2010; Federal Sentencing Data and Analysis Issues; and Guide to Publications & Resources 2010–2011.

The agency also published several editions of Selected Guideline Application Decisions by Circuit, which summarize selected court decisions involving application of the guidelines.

In addition, the Commission continued in 2010 to provide its collection of guideline training materials on new guideline amendments and guideline sentencing issues related to drugs, economic crimes, Chapter Three adjustments, immigration, relevant conduct, and sex crimes.

These materials and publications and numerous others are frequently disseminated at guideline training sessions across the country and are available on the Commission’s web site at www.ussc.gov.

The year 2010, as used in this report, refers to the fiscal year 2010 (October 1, 2009, through September 30, 2010).
